SIGNS OF THE TIMES. Since time began, hand signals have been used at one time or another as a method of communication. In aviation, the din of jet engines often makes it impossible for ground personnel to confer audibly with pilots. Shown here at Hughes Air West terminal in San Francisco are some of the more than two dozen hand signals approved by the Federal Aviation Administration for use at airports.

Bumpers' Son's Trial Postponed

BOONEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Municipal Judge B. F. Donahon of Booneville said Thursday that a hearing for Brent Bumpers, 19, son of Gov. Dale Bumpers on a charge of driving while intoxicated has been postponed until Jan. 21.

The hearing originally was scheduled for today, but the defense had asked for a postponement until Jan. 14, Donahon said. He said Police Chief Rex Dempsey also had asked for a postponement because some of his patrolmen would be out of town on Jan. 14.

Young Bumpers was arrested on the night of Dec. 26 after his car ran off the road, according to the Logan County sheriff's office.

Blue Ridge Sparks Fly, No Electricity

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer
GALAX, Va. (AP) — The Blue Ridge Power Project has been on the drawing board for nearly seven years. It has yet to produce any electricity, but sparks have been flying from the start.

The battle has touched Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina, but its outcome could affect other states where the federal government takes an active role in water pollution control.

At issue basically is the government's insistence that a private power company enlarge a dam project so that enough water can be stored to stem river pollution created by industries more than 200 miles away. The expanded plan means relocation of thousands of additional residents from populated areas which would be flooded.

The dispute began in 1965 when the Appalachian Power Co. of Virginia sought Federal Power Commission approval for a twin-dam project near here to expand its electric generating capacity.

After investigations and public hearings, a FPC examiner authorized a license for the $350 million project provided the company agreed to an antipollution plan insisted on by the U.S. Department of Interior. The matter is now before the full commission and a decision

Woman Determined to Beat Urban Renewal

By JUDY VAN SLYKE
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Frederika Blankner's fight to save her property from urban renewal has cost $14,000 but the 70-year-old retired college professor says she will take her case all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary.

She contends the City of Chicago, in collusion with the University of Chicago, violated due process provisions of the U.S. Constitution in taking her property through eminent domain proceedings without giving her a chance to protest the action.

Under eminent domain, a city may go through the courts to acquire property "useful, advantageous or desirable for municipal purposes or public welfare."

"The city says it took the property from the public because of slum and blight," says Miss Blankner. "The city did this, however, without submitting evidence of slum and blight."

The battle for Miss Blankner's three-story brick apartment building started in 1967. The city offered her $35,000 for her property in the Woodlawn area adjacent to the University of Chicago. Her family has owned the building for 50 years, and she has lived there off and on for much of that period.

Miss Blankner refused to sell. She claimed that the University of Chicago had talked the city into trying to buy her property so the university could buy it for expansion of its crowded campus.

The city obtained a Circuit Court judgment condemning the property and ordering Miss Blankner to sell the building for $45,000.

All other structures in the area have been taken over by the city, sold to the university and razed—except for two university-owned apartment buildings. Miss Blankner says they were exempted from condemnation proceedings not because they were in better condition than the others, but because the university already owned them.

Miss Blankner appealed the 1968 Circuit Court ruling to the Illinois Supreme Court, claiming her constitutional rights had been violated since the suit placed on her the burden of proving that her property was not in a blighted area.

The State Supreme Court turned down her appeal two months ago and she is now trying to get a rehearing.

"The fact that a piece of property is involved is only incidental," said Miss Blankner, a former professor of classical literature at Adelphi University. "This whole thing is about constitutional rights. If I let these abuses of the Constitution go by, I would be reducing myself to a zero."

Official's Duty to Shut Mouth

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — "It is the duty of the government official to keep his mouth shut," says former Secretary of State Dean Rusk, commenting on the leaking of key White House strategy session papers to columnist Jack Anderson.

Rusk said Thursday, "If there is an official in government leaking these matters, he ought to be dealt with severely... and if any member of the press used improper means to get such information, it raises a very serious question."

Anderson has been publishing minutes of secret strategy sessions on the India-Pakistan war. Rusk, now a University of Georgia law professor, says such action "is diplomatically embarrassing."

President Returns to Washington

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon returns to the White House tonight after telling Japan's Prime Minister Eisaku Sato he will speed the return of Okinawa to Japan and rid the island of nuclear, chemical and biological weapons.

The two leaders, during about eight hours of summit talks here Thursday and Friday, also agreed to set up a Washington-Tokyo "hot line"—an effort to assure Japan the United States will not again spring what the Japanese call "Nixon shocks."

Sato was politically embarrassed when Nixon announced plans last July for a journey to Peking and a month later imposed a temporary 10 per cent import surcharge with little or no advance word to Sato.

The prime minister, holding a post-summit news conference with White House reporters, said he had high hopes the Washington-Tokyo communications link—a teletype—would mean "we would not be unprepared for shocks."

American officials entered the Sato talks with hopes Japan would agree to an early lowering of tariff and quota barriers that have helped create a 3 billion annual deficit in U.S. trade with Japan.

A Nixon-Sato communique gave no hint of solid developments in the economic area. However, the prime minister told reporters that Hakuei Tanaka, his minister for trade and industry, was hopeful of a mutually satisfactory settlement in the near future.

Nixon and Sato agreed that Okinawa, the World War II battleground held by the United States since 1944, will be returned to Japan next May 5. The prime minister had wanted to raise his flag over the island on April 1 and Nixon thought about July 1, so they split the difference.

Sato said the president assured him all nuclear, chemical and biological weapons will be removed from U.S. bases on Okinawa before the transfer.

Cutting Copper Exploration

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Duval Corp. announced Friday it is cutting back on its copper exploration staff, following similar moves made by three other major copper mining firms last week.

A Duval spokesman said cutbacks would occur primarily in South America and Australia, but some personnel would be reassigned from exploration teams in the United States to other Duval departments.

Last week, the Cerro Corp., Kennecott Copper Co., and the Copper Range Corp. announced cutbacks in their exploration staffs due to the poor economic status of the industry.

1st Lady Enjoys Stay in Ghana

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — Pat Nixon said goodbye to Ghana's leading officials Thursday night at a U.S. Embassy dinner featuring "turkey—American Thanksgiving Day style."

The 24 guests also drank California wines and the menu included several Ghanaian dishes, including Tema shrimp served on wedges of pineapple, baked squash and coconut cream pie.

To the guest of honor, Prime Minister Kofi A. Busia, Mrs. Nixon gave a lifetime bronze bust of Abraham Lincoln by Leo Cherne and a clock.

Others at the dinner party given by U.S. Ambassador Fred L. Hadsel and his wife included Ghana's chief justice, the speaker of the National Assembly, the foreign minister and minister of parliamentary affairs, top officials of two universities and directors of five projects Mrs. Nixon visited.

Time to Make Plans for the Days Ahead

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — At the advent of a new year, we look before and after.

It is a time to make modest or vast new plans for the days ahead, but it is also a season of remembrance, a time when the heart lives again in its past.

Your own mind and heart have much to recall if you can look back and remember when—

On Monday while doing the laundry housewives spent most of the day talking to themselves with their mouths full of clothsops.

A juvenile delinquent was a kid who started smoking corn-cob cigarettes behind the barn at 15.

Few communities ever voted down a bond issue to build a new school building. Education was held to be the best answer to the challenge of the future.

Someone in the house always buttered the inside of a metal pail before taking it to the corner saloon to be filled with beer. The butter was supposed to cut down the amount of foam.

Business secretaries wore long skirts and white blouses and usually had a pencil stuck in their hair buns.

A young teacher sometimes secretly dated a member of the high school football team, but if her principal or the school board found out it would cost her her job.

Superstitious kids walked carefully along the sidewalk for fear that if they stepped on a crack they'd break their grand-mother's back.

There were more walrus mustaches than there were walruses.

You knew you were in a cultured family if all the girls in it could play the piano or foot-pumped organ.

When a son or daughter of an immigrant family graduated from his school, his diploma was framed and hung on the living room wall.

If you were middle-aged and wanted to look elegant, you wore rimless eyeglasses—like President Woodrow Wilson's.

You could make a child happy for days by buying it a ten-cent red rubber ball to play with.

Bumpers Meets With Mayors

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers met Thursday with a group of mayors to discuss municipal problems and legislation they would like to see included in a possible special legislative session or in the 1973 regular meeting with the General Assembly.

The mayors meeting with the governor were members of the Executive Committee of the Arkansas Municipal League.

The session included a discussion of the possibility that recent court decisions would lead to abolition of dependence on the local property tax for financing public schools.

Glenn G. Zimmerman, Municipal League executive director, said this eventuality would offer a chance to revamp the constitutional restriction on property taxes so that cities and counties could collect more. They are now limited to five mills each while there are no limitations on school districts.

Zimmerman suggested that even if the five-mill limit is not removed, the legislature could raise the property assessment ratio above the current 20 per cent level to as much as 100 per cent.

Also discussed was the possibility of allowing cities to keep all the three-mill road tax collected within the cities. The municipalities now share half the tax with the counties.

Mayor Tom Ellsworth of Hot Springs asked Bumpers to consider measures by which the state could take advantage of proposed new federal legislation providing increased federal funding for sewage treatment and disposal facilities.

Viet Cong Shell U.S. Positions

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong forces launched their heaviest shelling attack against U.S. troops in South Vietnam six months Friday night, while the North Vietnamese attempted to complete a sweep of the strategic Bolovens plateau in southern Laos.

A 20-round mortar barrage hit U.S. fire support base Fiddler's Green, 20 miles northeast of Saigon, wounding 18 troops of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment and one South Vietnamese soldier.

The U.S. Command said the casualties were the highest from a shelling attack since July 5.

The command said, however, that only three men were wounded seriously enough in the latest attack to require evacuation to a hospital.

The attack was the third this week on American forces, apparently in retaliation for the heavy U.S. air strikes against targets in North Vietnam last month.

The Viet Cong declared on Dec. 30 they would "strike back against American aggressors in South Vietnam" in revenge for the U.S. air raids against "our compatriots in the North."

Meanwhile, heavy fighting continued in southern Laos.

The fighting erupted Thursday when several North Vietnamese battalions attacked Laotian forces at Ban Gnik on Route 23 between Pakse and the Bolovens plateau on the western edge of the Ho Chi Minh trail, Hanoi's supply line to the south.

The North Vietnamese seek a stronghold in the Bolovens to secure the Ho Chi Minh trail, and also to keep alternate supply routes open.

The U.S. Command reported no B52 raids overnight in South Vietnam. Military sources said the giant stratofortresses were concentrating on targets on the Ho Chi Minh trail and in support of Laotian government forces on the Bolovens plateau and in the Long Cheng area in northern Laos.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in South Vietnam, met Friday in Bangkok with Thai leader Thanom Kittikachorn to discuss what steps might be taken to reverse the deteriorating situation in Laos.

Thai military leaders have said that if Long Cheng, a U.S. Central Intelligence Agency base, falls it could endanger the security of Thailand which borders Laos.

Army Plans Cut of 113,000

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon will slash an extra 113,000 men from the armed services over the next six months because of congressional budget cuts and other actions, it announced today.

This will bring total U.S. armed strength as of June 30 to 2,392,000 men—the lowest figure since before the Korean War broke out in 1950.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedman said the deep cutback in military manpower "will have impact on the level of draft calls."

The Pentagon already has passed up any draft for January and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has said it's possible there will be no draft calls in February or March, either.

The new manpower actions suggest the possibility of an even longer period without draft calls or small monthly quotas for most of the year.

At the same time, Friedman said the Defense Department will have to trim 41,000 more civilian workers than it had planned when President Nixon sent his fiscal 1973 budget to Congress last winter.

Bill to Assist Rural Arkansas

BATESVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., said Friday he planned to introduce in Congress this month a community development bill that would help solve the economic problems of rural Arkansas.

Alexander made the statement at the last of a series of hearings on community development. Friday's hearing, held at Batesville, drew witnesses from Van Buren, Stone, Sharp, Izard, Independence and Fulton counties.

The congressman told the hearing the immediate goal of his bill would make new money resources available to county and municipal governments. Its end goal would be to increase job opportunities for all Arkansians, he said.

A number of witnesses from the six counties told of the economic needs and possible solutions to economic problems of the towns and counties in the area.

The Filipinas of Manila

Manila, capital of the Philippines, is an ideal place to get a visual impression of the country's people. "The people are brown and charming," says an official guidebook. "These are the only constants." Manila contains an incomparable sampling of the variety of races and cultures mingled in a nation which is perhaps the world's greatest melting pot. And a photographer wandering through the streets can't fail to be impressed with the look of the women—the Filipinas. Clinging to their own, ancient oriental traditions, rushing to take up the newest ideas of the West, it's all visible in the women as they go their energetic and active way about the capital.

In terms of women's lib, one can record that the Philippine Feminist Association was founded in 1905; women won the right to vote in 1937; about three quarters of the total number of public school teachers are women, and there are women presidents of coeducational universities; pharmacy is practically a women's monopoly; there are some 2,000 female bus conductors in the Greater Manila area. And there are also some very pretty girls . . .

'Foxway' Hits Hard At Violence in U.S.

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—A big picture of '72 will be "Foxway," based on Richard Jessup's hard-hitting novel. It's a violent book but its Hollywood history has been marked by a curious gentleness.

Otto Preminger bought "Foxway." But he and Jessup disagreed on what approach to take to the film. Preminger wanted to concentrate on the love story aspect. Jessup wanted that to be there but he felt the violence was more important. Both men are fighters but their disagreement and their parting was amicable.

Now Jessup is writing the screenplay himself. He's currently thinking about casting. The lead, Terry Foxway, is a Vietnam veteran whose training in killing complicates his return to civilian life.

"I don't think," Jessup says, "that there's a star with a big enough name to mean anything who could play the part. So I'll go with an unknown. I can go down to the Sunset Strip any night and interview 50 kids and find my Terry."

"For the rest, I'll go with good actors—I'd like Dean Jagger for the general, Elaine Stritch for the teacher and Tony Quinn—I wrote a picture for him once and he owes me one—for a cameo role as the illiterate Mexican."

Jessup worked on his book for four years. He says he felt it was time for someone to say something about violence in America.

"It's reached the point," he says, "where we have to change to survive. Christianity has had its shot for 2,000 years and failed. Democracy has had its shot for 200 years and isn't doing too well. Now it's time to try something new."

"I don't know where the new idea will come from, but my dream is that the book and the movie will help. Maybe some guy in some little town in Wisconsin will read the book or see the movie and write a letter to the Times and that will be the start."

Shepherd's Fleck

Jean Shepherd is one of the funniest men around. He does his thing mostly on radio, in college concerts and in books. It's a shame he hasn't done more TV than he has but he's young yet.

Anyhow, Shepherd is a student of comedy as well as a practitioner. And he's pessimistic about the future of the art.

"I don't know what will happen," he says, "when Hope and Benny and Skelton and the others of that generation die off. There are very few new comics coming up—they have no place to learn."

He thinks Flip Wilson is funny and will be around a long time.

"Flip is making it," Shepherd says, "because he laughs at himself, and that's always been the best source of humor. Look at Dick Gregory—he's a poor comedian because his humor is directed at others, not at himself."

He says the public still wants to laugh, but it's tougher to find comedy around.

"TV doesn't give them enough comedy," he says. "TV is living in the past, giving a renewal to Lucy every year. There hasn't been a good young comic on TV in years, except for black males and ugly white females."

Shepherd's newest book, "Wanda Hickey's Night of Golden Memories," is funny and nostalgic and beautiful. Golden Memories... is a neat trick. He prefers all at the same time, which is a neat trick. He prefers books when he writes, rather than plays or movie scripts, because he feels that in books it's the author who counts.

Perfection in Costume Jewelry

From Erwin Pearl's new collection of costume jewelry come the two designs shown above. Flexible owl (left) can be worn as a pendant or a brooch. Stones in the eyes are in turquoise, lapis, jade or cat's-eye. Egyptian bull (right) with heavy chain medallion also can be worn as a pin.

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Erwin Pearl of Veneto Fifty-Seven is a man who until this year designed only exquisite real jewelry — in a price range that covered all the ground from $200 to $50,000.

And now he has put his creative ability into a collection of costume jewelry that looks just like the real thing. Only the price looks different — from about $13 to $30.

There are owls, lions, Buddhas and dozens of other unique designs.

"For some of them we even knocked off our own real stuff," he said.

He likes doing the new line because he will reach more people who will enjoy wearing his pieces. It is in department stores and jewelry stores across the country.

"It's fun when you see women wear your designs. And now instead of seeing one it will be 100."

"Basically every designer is a ham," Pearl admitted. "He wants applause and gets it when he sees his stuff being worn. Otherwise the job is a rat race."

This new line, Pearl says, is for the woman who always wanted real jewelry but couldn't afford it. She alone will know it isn't the McCoy.

Then there is the woman who does wear real jewelry. She can mix up the new line with her good pieces and no one will realize which is the fake.

"It took me eight months just to bring out a finish for the jewelry that satisfied me," Erwin said.

"I don't come from another field into jewelry as many other designers do. Our firm is at the top of the jewelry field and we want perfection."

And the finish is beautiful and does look real and the designs are unique. He did exactly what he intended to do. It's a handsome collection.

THE GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Using Teens for Publicity?

Dear Helen And Sue:

This is a gripe shared by a lot of us "supposedly" teen leaders. Adults make a big thing out of putting us on advisory committees to help solve community problems. It's an honor for us, and we appreciate it, but what a let-down when you go to the meetings and discover you're there just for looks.

A couple of us seniors were asked to serve on the Mayor's committee to improve racial relations. Well, we worked hard and got up a good report, with suggestions that made sense. What did we get from the adults? Not even their attention! They already knew just what they were going to do. We had been included mainly because it made good publicity for the Mayor.

I know a girl who is on the "advisory board" of a national teen magazine. They urge her to send in reports, suggestions, ideas. You'd think they'd at least acknowledge her efforts with a personal letter, but no, she gets a printed "Thank you" notice once in a while. She finally realized this was honorary only—she wasn't supposed to contribute.

I hope you'll publish my letter as a reminder to adults that if they throw us a bone, they should expect us to pick it up and run with it. We'd be honored to work with them, if they'd let us work. We don't expect them to accept all our ideas, but we believe we rate something more than condescension. We'd like the courtesy of their arguments.

—SILENT COMMITTEE MEMBER

Dear Committee Member:

We'll be glad to print your reminder—with an added one of our own:

Dear Adult Committee Members, etc.: You can't close the generation gap by filling it up with hot air. If you want rapport with those "honored" teen leaders, then treat them as the wise young adults they are.

Listen! And learn!—HELEN

AND SUE

Dear Rap:

I have two questions about dating etiquette: If a boy asks for a date, shouldn't he also plan where he is taking the girl? My boy friend says the girl must choose and I say he should.

Also, we have been dating regularly for four months. His birthday comes before mine. Should I give him a gift, and what?—PERPLEXED

Dear Per:

A boy puts a girl on a terrible spot when he says, "Where do you want to go?" It's his money; therefore he should make the plans—but if he's a nice guy, he'll sometimes ask for alternate suggestions.

An inexpensive gift would be appropriate for your boy friend's birthday. How about shave lotion, a funny game you can play together, a tie clip... something well under $5.00?—HELEN

Dear Perplexed:

Don't be too shy about making suggestions when a guy asks where you want to go. He wouldn't ask you if he thought you were the type who'd have him spend a week's allowance in a couple of hours. When he asks, it's really a compliment.

About the gift: Mom's suggestions are great, but you might also think of something in the line of his hobby; a favorite book, a record, a do-it-yourself manual. The list is endless. Just make the gift an impersonal one.—SUE

Dear Sue:

I like a certain boy a lot, but he's going steady, though he seems to prefer me to his steady. He also likes another girl.

I don't really think it's so great, him three-timing all of us. What should I do?—CONFUSED

Dear Con:

Play his game. It isn't all that hard to like several boys at once. A growing number of "unsteady" teens agree this is the only way to fly.—SUE

SO YOU WANT TO BE

By ERNIE HOOD
There's nothing sick about health service occupations for a career, as studies by the Bureau of Labor Statistics reflects.
For example, a comparison of the projected annual openings for physicians—20,000—indicates that each year medical schools will have to graduate, on the average, more than twice as many physicians as in 1969 to meet annual manpower requirements. There were 295,000 physicians in practice in 1968, and projected 1980 requirements show 450,000.

Elsewhere in health service—
Osteopathic physicians — 12,000 in 1968 and 18,500 needed by 1980 for 54.2 per cent projected growth.

Dentists — 100,000 in 1968 and 130,000 by 1980, for 31.7 per cent growth.
Dental hygienists — 16,000 in 1968 and 33,500 by 1980, for growth of 109.4 per cent.

Dental laboratory technicians—27,000 in 1968 and 37,500 by 1980, for growth of 38.9 per cent.
Registered nurses—660,000 in 1968 and 1,000,000 by 1980, for growth of 51.5 per cent.

Licensed practical nurses — 320,000 in 1968 and 600,000 by 1980, for growth of 87.5 per cent.
Optometrists — 17,000 in 1968 and 21,000 by 1980, for projected growth at the rate of 23.5 per cent.

Pharmacists — 121,000 in 1968 and 130,000 by 1980, for growth at the rate of 7.0 per cent.
Podiatrists — 8,500 in 1968 and 9,500 by 1980, with growth at the rate of 11.8 per cent.

Chiropractors — 16,000 in 1968 and 19,000 by 1980, for growth at the rate of 18.8 per cent.
Occupational therapists— 7,000 in 1968 and 19,000 by 1980, for a growth rate of 171.4 per cent.

Physical therapists — 14,000 in 1968 and 36,000 by 1980 for growth rate of 157.1 per cent.
Speech pathologists and audiologists — 18,000 in 1968 and 33,000 by 1980, for growth rate of 83.3 per cent.

Sickness Can Pay Off By Lowering Taxes

By RAY DE CRANE
Admittedly, being sick is the hard way to obtain an income tax advantage.
But if you were sick last year and were absent from work because of either an illness or an injury, there may be a chance to recoup now.
To obtain this credit, known in tax jargon as a sick pay exclusion, you must have received wages either in whole or in part from your employer under a regular wage continuation program for the period of enforced absence from work.

The amount of your exclusion depends upon the length of your absence and the amount of pay received.
If you received full pay while you were absent—or at least something more than 75 per cent of full pay—your sick pay exclusion begins after a 30-day waiting period. After that you exclude full pay or $100 a week, whichever is less.

For periods of less than a week, the daily exclusion would be the lesser of actual pay received or $20 a day if you work a five-day week. The daily rate for a six-day or seven-day work week would be proportionately smaller.
If you receive 75 per cent or less than that percentage of normal pay, the waiting period is reduced to only seven calendar days. After

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The teachings of Confucius, revered by the Chinese for 2,000 years, are being attacked as they once were by the Ch'in dictatorship in 213 B.C. The World Almanac notes that his ethical teachings stress the individual's responsibility toward his family and toward others by following the "Golden Rule," which is contradictory to China's current authoritarian philosophy.

maximum of $100 a week, or actual pay received if smaller, after the first calendar days.
You count the days exactly, starting with the first day of absence. If you were sent home after starting to work, the part of a day constitutes the first day of your count. After counting off the required number of days, base your exclusion on the actual number of working days missed.
Whenever a sick pay exclusion is claimed, a Form 2440 (available through IRS) or your own statement of fact should be attached to your return.

Fairview Takes Pair From Cats

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

Last night in Jones Field House, the Hope Bobcats came out on the short end of the score as they took a 61-33 pounding at the hands of the Fairview Cardinals.

Tonight, the Bobcats, Bruins, and Bobkittens all travel to Magnolia for three games, the first starting at 5:30 p.m.

Although losing the tipoff, the Bobcats won the honor of hitting the first points as Bill Rowland hit a charity throw with 6:30 to play and then turned around to set up and pop in a jumpshot for a 3-0, Hope lead.

However, things quickly changed as the Cardinals picked up momentum for a 6-3 lead with a timeout by Hope, putting a break in the action. Immediately afterwards, Fairview outscored the Bobcats 5-2, to take an 11-5 lead, moving into the second quarter.

Taking the tipoff again, the Cardinals went down for the score, but Bill Rowland retaliated with a 10 foot jump shot to stay even behind. However, the Bobcats didn't score for another two minutes and only Danny Joyce could hit four more points, two charity tosses and a field goal, spaced out over the remainder of the period, as Hope went to the dressing room, trailing 25-11.

Getting underway in the second half, Hope fell farther and farther behind as they were outscored in the last two periods, 18-10, and 18-12.

Points by David Briggs, Jimmy Smith, Larry Morrison, and Joyce kept the Cats about 18 points behind for most of the segment, until the Cardinals hit last minute field goals for a 43-21, cushion with the fourth period coming up.

Even though the Bobcats tried with all they had, the offensive power just wasn't there as Fairview dominated the scoreboard and iced the game early in the last period.

High point for Hope was Morrison with 12 points, followed by Joyce and Briggs with seven each, and Rowland getting five.

Earlier in the evening, the Bobkittens fell behind early, and suffering through turnovers and cold shooting, lost a 42-28, decision to the Fairview juniors.

Unable to get an offensive attack untracked in the first quarter, the Kittens could only get eight points while giving up 20, on turnovers. Mike Hobson scored the only Kitten point for the first few minutes, before games Robinson, Jim Rhodes, and Jimmy Williams hit points at different intervals.

In a very low scoring second period, the Kittens outscored Fairview, 4-3, but still trailed at halftime, 23-12. Williams hit a field goal early in the stanza and Clay O'Steen popped the net twice on free throws to account for the scoring.

During the second half, Fairview kept putting the points on the board and seemingly pulling away.

Hope hit the first two points of the third quarter, but couldn't hit again for three minutes when Hobson found the range on a jumpshot to bring the score to 28-16, the Kittens down by 12. Playing on almost even terms the rest of the period, Hope found themselves down 35-20, with one quarter left.

Fairview took the tipoff and scored first, but this time the Kittens again won the quarter, outscoring the Cardinals, 8-7, although it wasn't anywhere near enough.

Williams hit 10 points, Hobson hit eight, and Robinson, Rhodes, O'Steen, and Eugene Tyree all put in two each.

Two undefeated heavyweights fighting for $2.5 million each, two golfers meeting head on to see which one would come closest to a record one-quarter million dollar earning mark, two fine baseball teams separated by only one run in a seven-game World Series, a tennis player earning close to $300,000, a jockey earning that much by winning more than $3 million in purses and an automobile driver taking down $355,000 in purses.

These were among the sports highlights of 1971, an incredible year in which everything in sports, including college football records, seemed to tie right in with world inflation.

Picking the year's outstanding professional athlete would seem an impossible task with many in the running. There was Joe Frazier in boxing, Lee Trevino in golf, Roberto Clemente in baseball, Rod Laver in tennis, Laffit Pincay in thoroughbred racing and Al Unser in automobile racing.

Close to them as headline makers on performance would be third baseman Joe Torre and pitcher Vida Blue, tennis star Ken Rosewall, jockey Willie Shoemaker, golfer Jack Nicklaus and harness driver Herve Filion.

Probably no sports event captured the interest of the world as did the heavyweight championship fight between Frazier and Muhammad Ali, alias Cassius Clay. Frazier won the unanimous 15-round decision before a packed crowd of 20,455 in Madison Square Garden on March 8.

A Record Take
The fight, at $150 for ringside seats, drew $1,350,000, a record for a single sports event indoors. It was televised live via satellite around the world and was on closed-circuit television in the United States for an estimated gate of $18 million.

The fight itself was unusual in that Ali did more clowning than boxing and spent much time leaning against the ropes while Frazier, a relentless borer in type of slugger, pounded away almost at will. The only exciting part of the bout came in the 15th round when Frazier uncorked a tremendous left hook to Ali's jaw, sending him to the seat of his trunks for the mandatory eight count.

For Frazier it was his 27th pro victory without a defeat and only the fourth time an opponent went the limit.

When Nicklaus earned $30,000 by taking the Disney World Open in Orlando, Fla., he ran his official golf tour earnings for the year to a record $244,490.50. But it was Trevino, the Mighty Tex, who was the golfer of the year with $231,202.97 in official winnings. Arnold Palmer also had a fine year, earning $209,000 on tour.

Trevino captured six tournaments, including the U.S. British and Canadian Open events in less than four weeks.

The World Series began in Baltimore and just as most of the experts predicted the favored Orioles jumped off in front, winning the first two games, 5-3 and 11-3. But the Pittsburgh Pirates, led by Clemente, their 37-year-old right fielder, swept the three games in Pittsburgh on brilliant pitching. Steve Blass three-hit the defending champions for a 5-1 victory. Then the Pirates, with excellent relief work by rookie Bruce Kison, won the first night series game, 4-3. In the fifth game the Pirates took the edge with a 4-0 win on Nellie Briles' two-hit pitching. The Orioles evened the series at three games each back in Baltimore, scoring 3-2 on a sacrifice fly in the 10th inning.

Hit in All Games

But the Pirates, behind Blass' four-hit effort, won the final and deciding game 2-1. Clemente's homer, his second in two days, scored their first run. Jose Pagan's double scored the winning run. Clemente, hitting safely in every game, a feat he performed in the 1960 series, batted .413 and was voted the outstanding player of the classic. The Orioles had four 20-game winners but Baltimore's heavy hitters were silenced by Pirate pitchers in the last five games.

Laver, a 33-year-old Australian on tour for nine years, earned $292,717, but Rosewall, whom he had beaten seven times in eight matches during the year, won the world title and $50,000 when the 37-year-old Australian beat Laver, 6-4, 1-6, 7-6, 7-6 indoors in Dallas. The match lasted three hours and helped swell the 5-foot-7 Rosewall's earnings to $136,000.

Jockey Pincay led riders wherever he appeared. At Hollywood Park in the spring he set a record with 106 winners to Shoemaker's 78. Pincay, a Panamanian, also led the riders at Saratoga, Belmont and Aqueduct. Shoemaker won a record 44 stakes races.

Eight racing drivers earned more than $100,000 but Al Unser, winner of the rich Indianapolis 500 and four other events, earned $355,076.

In harness racing, Herve Filion, a 31-year-old French-Canadian driving day and night, won more than 500 races to surpass his 1970 record of 486.

Pro football had another fine season although some of the more illustrious quarterbacks such as Joe Namath, Bart Starr, Johnny Unitas and Sonny Jurgensen saw limited action because of injuries and operations. In last January's Super Bowl in Miami, the Baltimore Colts upset the Dallas Cowboys 16-13. A 32-yard field goal by Jim O'Brien in the last five seconds won it.

College football will have to wait until New Year's night in Miami's Orange Bowl to find the No. 1 team and the winner of the MacArthur Bowl award. In that clash No. 1 Nebraska, Big Eight champion and unbeaten for more than two seasons, meets No. 2 Alabama, Southeastern Conference champion.

Unbeaten in 31 Games
Nebraska, led by running back Jeff Kinney's four touchdowns, had to come from behind twice to beat Oklahoma, 35-31, then trimmed Hawaii 45-3 to run its unbeaten string to 31 games with 22 victories in a row. The Cornhuskers had a 12-0 record. Alabama, with an 11-0 record, scored its big win over Auburn when it throttled star

Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins hit .337 for his third league batting title. He beat Bobby Murcer of the New York Yankees by six points.

The Montreal Canadiens finished third in the National Hockey League East, 12 games behind Boston and six back of New York but the Canadiens ousted the Boston Bruins in the seven-game semi-finals and then beat the Chicago Black Hawks. West winners in the seven-game Stanley Cup finals.

In pro basketball the Milwaukee Bucks won the NBA crown by beating the Baltimore Bullets and the Utah Stars nipped the Kentucky Colonels for the ABA title. UCLA won its fifth straight NCAA crown, beating Villanova, 68-62.

Trevino and Nicklaus finished all even in the U.S. Open at Merion near Philadelphia but Trevino won the playoff 68-71. Earlier in the year Nicklaus won the PGA title for his 11th major crown. Charles Coody took the Masters with 279 as Nicklaus and John Miller tied for second. Trevino won the British Open by one shot with Nicklaus five shots back in fifth place.

Mrs. JoAnne Carner won the Women's U.S. Open by seven strokes while Kathy Whitworth took the Eve Ladies PGA crown.

Scored 174 Points

Penn State's Lydell Mitchell paced the nation's collegians in scoring with 29 touchdowns and 174 points. Marino was second with 148 points and set a new NCAA record for 1,881 yards. He played only nine games whereas most other stars were in 11 games.

Baseball trades involved such big names as Frank Robinson, who went from the Orioles to the Dodgers; Rich Allen, Dodgers to White Sox; Sam McDowell, Gaylord Perry, Lee May, Ken Holtzman, Rick Monday and Stan Bahnsen. Manager Danny Murtagh retired as Pirate manager because of heart problems and Bill Virdon was named to succeed him for 1972.

A number of race horses finished the year with winning streaks but it remained for Cananero II, a $1,200 Kentucky-bred who gained fame in Venezuela, to become the most discussed colt of the year. He surprised by winning the Kentucky Derby as a $19.40 field horse but returned $59 for $2 in New York's off track betting pool.

After winning the Preakness in record time he was an odds on favorite to take the Belmont and the triple crown. But he ran fourth before a record 82,694 fans. Pass Catcher, at 35-to-1, won the race, staggering home when rider Walter Blum lost his whip.

Riva Ridge, a 2-year-old colt, won his last five races and earned top figure of $503,263. Numbered Account, a filly of 2, won five in a row and $446,595 but against colts in the Garden State she ran fourth. Run the Gantlet and Bold Reason both finished with winning streaks and each earned more than $300,000 in the 3-year-old ranks. Pre-Derby favorite Hoist the Flag broke a bone in his foot in a workout but was saved for stud.

Many name pros were missing from the U.S. Open tennis championships at Forest Hills. Stan Smith won the crown, beating Jan Kodes. Mrs. Billie Jean King won the women's title.

Jim Ryun and Marty Liquori were standouts in track. Ryun tied the indoor mile record with a 3:56.4 in San Diego while Liquori ran his winning streak to 13 indoor victories.

Albattross, 3-year-old pacing champion, won a record $558,009 and was harness horse of the year.

The American League approved a franchise shift with the Washington Senators becoming the Texas Rangers for

BATTLE OF UNBEATENS: Joe Frazier, following a vicious left hook to the jaw of Muhammad Ali, gained a unanimous decision and undisputed possession of the heavyweight title by handing Ali his first defeat before 20,455 in Madison Square Garden. It was billed as the "Fight of the Century."

1972, and the New York Giants said they would leave hallowed Yankee Stadium for Hacksack, N.J., after 1974. It was that kind of a year with athletes quitting with little notice, the most notable being Washington outfielder Curt Flood. Disgusted and in debt, he flew to Europe early in the season.

Sanders Tops All-Pros Again

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—For the second straight year, Charlie Sanders of the Detroit Lions is the top vote-getter on the NEA All-Pro team as selected by the team captains and player representatives on the 26 National Football League teams.

Sanders, the 6-4, 225-pound tight end, has provided substantial headaches for opponents in his four-year career. But the feelings have been mutual. Sanders has had several concussions this season and several more times was knocked unconscious. He spends so much time being carried from the field that the Sealy Co. may begin making Posturepedic stretchers for him. But five minutes later, he returns to action.

He dives for passes. He burrows for loose balls. He bangs into defenders and walls with equal abandon. On one running play this season, he put a block on Aaron Brown that sent Brown to the sidelines for the rest of that game and for the game after. "The most s a v a g e block I've ever had," said Brown.

Of the 23 positions, the National Conference placed 12 players to the AFC's 11, in this the second year that the two leagues have had a joint All-Star team.

Minnesota led all teams with four selections. Two of them came from the so-called Purple People Eaters, the defensive front four: end Carl Eller and tackle Alan Page. Safety Paul Krause and offensive tackle Ron Yary are the other two Vikings.

Another top vote-getter was Bob Griese, Miami quarterback. Griese, who was second last year to John Brodie, beat out a surprise newcomer to pro football star status, Roger Staubach of Dallas.

This year's All-Pro running backs are a combination of the old and the new. Cleveland's Leroy Kelly, pro star for several years, gained one backfield spot. His running mate is Green Bay's John Brockington, who gained over 1,000 yards in this his first pro season.

Another long-time pro star, Jim Otto of Oakland, is this season's No. 1 center. Bill Curry of Baltimore was a close second.

Two neo-acrobats are the wide receivers. They are Paul Warfield of Miami and Otis Taylor of Kansas City.

Bob Brown, Oakland tackle; Gale Gillingham, Green Bay guard; Tom Mack, Los Angeles guard, and Washington kicker Curt Knight round out the first-team offense.

This season, Willie Lanier of Kansas City officially takes his place along the game's supreme middle line-backers. He beat out the renowned Dick Butkus of Chicago for that position on the All-Pro team.

Baltimore's defending Super Bowl champions placed two men on the team. One is safety Rick Volk. The other is a rookie, the 6-7 Ted Hendricks, corner line-backer.

San Francisco placed two men on the defensive team, halfback Jim Johnson and corner line-backer Dave Wilcox, as did Dallas, tackle Bob Lilly and halfback Mel Renfro.

Atlanta's standout end, Claude Humphrey, rounds out the defensive team.

The NEA All-Players All-Pro team, selected with the cooperation of the NFL Players Association, will be honored at the annual presentation ceremonies in CBS Television City, Hollywood, on Thursday, Jan. 20.

The players will receive individual statuettes, sculpted by NEA editorial cartoonist Bill Crawford, to honor their selection to the all-pro team and will also be presented with engraved Bulova watches.
